Life Science Teacher at Atkins High School

My name is Darrell Pace and I teach Biology, Pre-AP Biology, AP Biology, and Anatomy and Physiology at Atkins High School. This is my third year teaching science and my first year at Atkins.

About me:

I completed my Bachelors Degree at Arkansas State University in Jonesboro, and I earned a Masters Degree at the University of Arkansas at Monticello. Before entering the education field I worked in the operating room setting as a First assistant and a Surgical Technologist. I trained in this field while I was serving in the Navy. After spending six years in the Navy I moved to Mountain Home Arkansas and began helping my father run our families grocery store. After my daughters had finished school and moved on to college, I myself returned to school and started on the path that ultimately led me to this wonderful school district. My son is attending school here and he is in the fourth grade. I look forward to spending many years working here and watching him grow up in the Atkins School District.
